Build and Skin Colour: Slim and Lithe with a pale skin tone

Facial Features and Eye Colour: Frost Blue eyes with thin lips and a small nose

Hair Colour and Style: Long, straight hair, pulled back in a pony tail. Black with a Yellow Streak running from the left temple

Distinguishing Features: Average won't stand out in a crowd

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: (Reserved/Contemplative/Vindictive) Jason due to his upbringing has learned that quite and patience gets him much farther than being loud and obnoxious. Until he gets use to you his conversation skills revolve around grunts and other unintelligible forms of communication. Once comfortable around an individual, he will begin to open up more and begin to communicate more openly. He also has a very vindictive streak since his accident those that cross him should be wary of retaliation in one form or another. Also he has gained a stronger sense of loyalty and a bit of an anti non Yamataian attitude.

Likes: Women, Food, Liquor, Smoking, Mechanics, Foreign Technolodgy, New System Designs, and Upgrading Standard Equipment. Dislikes: Overly Boisterous People, Pranks, Politics, Religion, Terrorists, and Anyone who preys on the weak Goals: To develop new gear useable by the star army to protect it's citizens. And to destroy any asshole that crosses him.

History

Pre-RP

Jason was the last born into a rather average family. His father being a mechanic on basic planetary travel systems. His mother an ex-soldier who decided that family life was more to her liking. Growing up as the last with 4 older siblings lead him to a more quite tendency as a young child. His older siblings didn't listen to him when he had an idea, his father was always busy working. The only person that really listened to him was his mother. It was a fairly quite and content life overall but nothing very exciting either.

He found out at a young age that he was gifted with a knack for mechanical and computer systems. While he didn't necessarily know the names of parts or pieces he could usually find out what was wrong and put it back together correctly. This talent though left him lacking in the schooling form of education for many years. His grades were average to say the least.

It wasn't till college that he began to shine. That's were he met his professor, Doctor Yamata. Through the doctor's good nature and an inspiration, he found a love for grandier things such as weapons and systems design, starship control and maintenance and other Technical skills. But what he truly found intriguing was advanced optic and scanning calibration and reverberations. When Doctor Yamata gave him the opportunity to act as an intern on his Scanning and optic systems, using photonic resonance. He jumped at the chance. It's practical applications could change the way science viewed imaging in a whole new way. The bond between Doctor Yamata and Jason grew as time progressed and Doctor Yamata was more like a father to him than his own flesh and blood. His father rarely spent anytime with him nor gave him the understanding and support he so craved.

He was in his 20s when working on an experiment that went horribly wrong. They were using a crystalline containment that was used to capture a single photon and use its counterparts reactions to get a digital readout of what was in range of the other photon. This technology would have the potential to allow Long Range scans with no maximum range as long as the particle was present. To this day the system was not fully developed. It was unfortunate that someone had sabotaged the lab and when Jason was checking the device it exploded. It killed Doctor Yamata and ir was sure luck that it didn't kill himself in the process. However most of his body was completely destroyed. Instead of growing new limbs and fixing his old body, he opted for a transfer to a Yamataian body. They completed the transfer which killed the physical pain but not the mental anguish nor the hatred for those responsible.

The guilty parties were caught and executed. They did not give away who hired them but the rumor was that they were sent by the Nepleslian government, but that was never proven. Once out of the hospital he joined the star forces. He currently is awaiting orders.

Skills

Communication

Jason is familiar with basic radio operation and procedures and can make transmissions to and receive transmissions from other characters through headsets, starships, power armor, and shuttles in both combat and non-combat conditions. He is fluent in English ,Japanese. He can speak and write each correctly and efficiently and can write reports, fill forms, issue orders under fire, etc. He also can speak telepathically although not proficiently due to the newness of his body.

Combat

Jason is an expert in power armor combat. While he is proficient at using many types of weapons he prefers those that have the most parts that he can alter and upgrade.

Engineering

Building something is what he does. Tweak, alter, make it shoot farther, move faster or simply taking old parts and using them for something new is what his specialty is.

Maintenance and Repair

“If it ain't broke You'd should be fixing it for improvements” Is Jason's motto. He loves to tinker and a 0.001 increase in performance is an acceptable margin to him. He understands that small steps can lead to great achievements.

Starship Operations

While Jason was taught what he needed to know about Starship operations. He didn't spend to much time focusing on it. He can get from place to place if he needs to but he isn't quick about it either. It takes away from his tinkering time.

Rogue

Spotting useful people who are on the wrong side of the law has its uses and when behind enemy lines., finding useful people is a necessity. Gaining black market items to improve his effectiveness to help build something that will destroy the enemy is more than acceptable to him.

Technology Operations

Jason is capable of operating any computer system that uses the Kessaku OS, which is found on all Star Army starships. His primary focus though is systems that are installed in power armor then those used on larger vessels..
