Physical Description

Average muscle build, 6'2 in height, slightly tan skin, brown hair and angular facial features. Has a barcode tattoo under his left eye, a long scar running dead center over his right eye (the eye un-harmed), and sporadic scars over his torso.

Personality

Deadpan in general, will follow orders to the letter, numb to most forms of violence, and speaks only when he believes needed. Kaine much like his "father" has adopted the mentality of doing the job in hopes of getting shot. He is very reclusive in his interactions and not ready to open up to others with being persistent in their efforts. He views everyone as unskilled and likely to die unless given to believe otherwise.

History

Kaine 3487 was created shortly after Mark Tazar's recruitment into SABER with his permission in early YE39. His records were highly regarded and a second was wanted for further deployment, or in case of Mark's death as a replacement if possible, but continued service became the reason. As Mark chose to leave the service, but the military didn't want to lose such a soldier. Later that year Kaine decided to enlist with the air corp, with the evaluation tests and processes being brutal for the young clone, leaving him with more than his fair share of scares and two very close calls with death. Even through this he was accepted and served diligently. However, he was tagged as MIA after not being found during one battle where he was jettisoned into space in a pod.

He now drifts.
