Talos is a player character played by Jack Pine.

Talos

Species & Gender:	Male Human
Date of Birth:	35日 9月 YE 24
Organization:	Section 6
Occupation:	Infantry
Rank:	O4-Major
Current Placement:	Duskerian Legion

Physical Description

6'2 in height with Medium musculature, muscled but not bulked, with a lean frame of a body. Raven black hair with streaks of snow white, short but spiked in the front. Short beard and goatee combo. One eye is a deep blue, while the other is a dark crimson. Both the hair and eyes suggest a mixing in pigmentation traits, which have become more pronounced over time. Deep rough voice like that of an older man despite his young age of twenty-one.

Personality

Talos like Sparks can be rather aggressive, especially in combat, but does so with a more thought out approach. He thinks of possible outcomes, and how to tactical solve a hostile encounter. In public he tries to act like he's non-existent, trying to stay unnoticed. This more out of his odd appearance than his social awkwardness. He looks up to Jack and Sparks, to Jack as a leader, and to Sparks like an older sister. Talos can be rather quiet at times, saying only what is needed, but still voices his opinions if deemed they would be helpful. He is a man with an uncertain mind, desperately trying to understand how to live, and how be a person and not a tool. He hates slavery for obvious reasons, and enjoys his free will. But he is struggling constantly with figuring out what to do with it, what he wants, what he desires.

History

In YE24, cloning began for the Fenrir project, a initiative that sought to create mass produce-able soldiers. In this they were successful with the creation of their prototype who later became known as Jack Pine. A batch of 100 were created from him, 50 male, and 50 female. The males became known as Jacks, while the females were known as Janes. Talos has discarded this name, finding a new one to set himself apart. So he chose the name Talos, unsure of it's actual origins, but it didn't matter to an ex-slave who was meant to be used as a expendable soldier. But events were put in motion that saw the products shelved in cryogenic sleep, the data being used else where. for 16 years, Talos and his siblings slept, fated to be forgotten, but the prototype rose against the wishes of his masters. In YE39, Jack Pine founded Section 6, which he would later use to free the batch of siblings, having been unaware of their existence. He took them in, gave them a military to fight with that actually cared about them, and through it, hoped to help them break their changes. It was proven it could be done, as one before him had grown into unique individuals, later known as Sparks. However, even with his new freedom, even after a year, Talos is still figuring out what it means to be a man, human, and alive.
