History

Pre-RP

Fay's father was a Nepleslian hitman for a local crimelord on Nepleslia. After meeting Fay's Geshrin mother, who was a medical assistant at that time, they fell in love. Fay was born in YE 10, about 3 years after his parents were married. Around YE 20, Fay's father resigned from the 'business'; however, this did not sit well with his old boss one bit. To keep a constant paycheck to feed the family and pay bills, his father became a bouncer at a local pub.

Life was good… until Fay's 13th birthday. While on his way home from his new career, Fay's father was gunned down by his own ex-colleagues, the hitmen of his old boss. Thus, Fay despises most, if not all, criminal organizations. A year after his father's death, his mother was accepted as a medical professor of cybernetics installation at a small respectible university within a stable, non-violent zone of Nepleslia.

His mother now had a high enough position and plenty of money to get him a scholarship into a medical military academy. Unfortunately, a freak shuttle accident in YE 27 caused him to go blind and lose his right kneecap entirely. With his mother's knowledge, funds, and position, Fay was able to get cybernetic eyes and a mechanical kneecap. After recovering, Fay attended the academy and graduated.

Service Record

NSS Alliance

Fay didn't see much action aboard the NSS Alliance, but he did work in the medbay during one of the conflicts. During the shore leave afterwards, he was called away with family matters and was given leave. Unfortunately, this leave covered the entire duration of the Kennewes Offensive. When he had returned to service, the medic decided to transfer to the NSS Nerkat.

NSS Nerkat

During his first mission aboard the NSS Nerkat, he and his fellow marines assaulted fortified Red positions on a certain planet. After practically witnessing the sudden death of Autumn, a dear friend of his, Fay was injured by power armor shrapnel. The medic went in and out of conscientiousness for the rest of the battle due to fatigue and blood loss. However, he was able to aid a fallen comrade, whom in turn aided him back by caring his exhausted figure out of danger. The rest of the battle was a hazy mess in his mind even to this day. Afterwards, he was awarded the rank of Private Second Class, a decent amount of shoreleave, and the opportunity to transfer to the NSS Acadia.

Fighting and Physical

Before his death, Sergeant Saelus taught Fay a how to defend himself both inside and out of the Nepleslian society. Fay learned the basics of hand-to-hand combat and sidearm usage. Military training also taught him to use rifles and grenades. Fay has always enjoyed running, but never really liked any form of sports.
