Distinguishing Features:

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Yori is generally a laid back woman who doesn't take things too seriously and tries to stay easy going. One thing she is serious about though is that she never wants to be known as someone who can't be relied on, she doesn't strive for perfection or over work herself, but if she says she will do something, she will do it. When she is not working though, Yori is often day dreaming about her next invention, or socializing and relaxing.

Though she enjoys to talk, she is hardly ever the one to start a conversation, and only knows how to speak with other technical workers, never knowing what to say to people who don't know a lot about technology and often times just finds herself tripping up or just going along with the pace and not really understanding. She tends to visit blogs frequently however, where she is much more composed since she has as much time as she wants to figure out her words.

- Likes: raspberries, parfaits, swimming, and tinkering with things
- Dislikes: Investors who make deadlines without knowing about the project.
- Goals: Currently working on designing a powersuit entirely on her own.

History

Family

- Father: Kataoka Kise; works 'night shift' for security at Dawn Station.
- Mother: Kataoka Mary (Formerly Mary Thompson); works at a nail salon at dawn station.

Pre-RP

Yori was born into a relatively normal family on Yamatai. As she grew old enough to enter school her parents began to notice Yori had almost no interest in anything and would just silently go about her day. This of course worried her parents and they took her to professionals to see if something was wrong with the girl but the experts told them Yori was fine and her parents should try getting her engaged in something. Through trial and error Kise and Mary found that snap together toys seemed to really interest Yori and began buying her all sorts of them. By the time Yori was 12 she was spending her time customizing Mini 4WD cars and even making modifications to the engines.

In high school Yori took almost every class she could that involved working with machines and learning as much as she could about them. During YE29 Yori was present at a tech demonstration for a field trip in one of her classes, they were showing off the M5 Harpy power armor which Yori fell in love with and from that day on decided that she would want to work in that field. After high school she decided to head to vocational school to learn more about power armors so she could become a technician in the future.

After finishing school her family decided to move to Dawn station, her father had gotten a job there as security. After hearing of their future home, Yori immediately applied to work at Origin and was accepted. After things started somewhat slow, Yori submitted a design idea that she had for a new backpack for the Impulse armor and though it took some time to get it to production, it was seen that Yori could be used in the power armor development team and was assigned there as her main focus.

Terraforming Ake

P1 - Dust Bowl Children

Due to her supervisor's suggestion Yori, who spent too much time indoors, was recommended to join the Terraforming mission on Ake. She was rather hesitant at first, not wanting to deal too much with the physical types that would enjoy this type of situation. However she discovered a lot of the team were in fact not the brutes she was expecting. She even developed something of a friendship with Niel Strellan, the designer of the Atmospheric Purification System that was being used, and that Yori was helping to maintain.

They were not on the surface long before things started to go sour though. Not only were they attacked by raiders, but it turns out the previous terraforming team was not killed off, in fact they had left, probably with a wealth of resources that had been found on the planet.

OOO Stuff

Skills

Communications

Speaks fluent Yamataian and can operate communications systems. She does not know military lingo proficiently, but she can guess a few terms. Her Trade has gotten much better after having to use it so frequently, but her Seraphim is still a struggle for her to speak, she can read and write both fine though.

Engineering

Yori is a rather experienced engineer that has built quite a number of things on her own. She is more than capable of inventing new products and if fortunate possibly new technologies as well.

Maintenance

Given time Yori is capable of diagnosing and repairing just about anything, given that it uses conventional technology. And even without study Yori can repair most civilian technologies that are not proprietary without consulting a manual.

Mathmatics

Yori has a working knowledge of basic math as well as more complicated maths and sciences. She is no quantum physicist but she can recalibrate reactors or tune a quantum computer without blowing everything up.

Technology Operation

Is proficient with all Yamataian and Nepleslian common OS, however some she is less skilled with than others, her forte lies primarily in civilian OS while military OS are more lacking. She also has basic programming knowledge, but only enough to program work related things.

Fighting

Yori has basic Power Armor operation skills as well as basic weapons skills, enough to test things at a basic level and defend herself against civilians.
