Physical Description

Ken is tall with a slim but not lithe build, with a warm skin tone. He has a trim, sculpted physique with little fat or excessive muscle bulges that does not give him as much girth as others who have had as much physical training as he has but fits well with his frame. He is nicely proportioned with large hands and feet and strong calves and ankles. Ken has a strong neck that extends into distinct and handsome facial features. He has an oval face with a pretty much permanent five-o-clock shadow which he keeps trimmed up, with an angular chin and jaw and strong but not overly prominent cheekbones. He has expressive blue eyes and low eyebrows that curve upwards a bit when he smiles with a playful boyish smile. Ken's hair is dark chocolate brown and cut short into a fauxhawk style. Even Ken's hair compliments his boyish nature, as the longer hair that forms a point sways to the side slightly in an unruly, almost romantic way, instead of standing straight up.

Psychological Characteristics

Ken's takes his experiences and surroundings into himself. He can have extreme compassion and feel the pain of others. If something is wrong in the world that affects him, it affects him deeply, he takes it to heart and will feel extreme feelings regarding the matter. When he is happy, he is extremely happy and when he is sad, he is extremely depressed.

Ken grew up trusting his gut feelings finding out that most times out of most they usually correct. Ken's downfall is his sensitivity and his inability to reject another person. He really does not like rejection and will try to treat others the way he wants to be treated. So rarely will he say no to a person for fear of hurting their feelings. He will help another person with their problems and like to do so because making others feel good in turn makes him feel good. However because of his personality Ken's kind of his own self-undoing. Ken's inner conflicts usually comes with his extremes of temperament and conflicting emotions and his non-nonchalant ways trying to calm everything down.

The kind of women Ken's been found with are the ones who stir his emotions. He has such an unrealistic ideal of romance that he ends up falling out of love when he realizes that his partner can't meet his own needs or join him in an engulfing romance. When things become real, is when Ken starts to slip away. Which makes Ken into a bit of a lover boy, always in a romance as he searches for someone to match his zest for life. This man lives in the world of dreams and he needs a woman to keep him grounded. He always seems to choose the wrong woman, or a woman he can't have. He needs a woman who can guide him, but very subtly.

Positives

Imaginative, sensitive, adventurous, compassionate, kind, selfless, intuitive, sympathetic, adaptable, accepting, devoted, hardworking and always full of new things to do.

Biography

History

Ken was born on a cold Yamataian day in YE 09 to his Human mother and Nepleslian father on Yamatai. His father was an ex-soldier and ex-pilot from before the days of the Nepleslian Star Empire. His father retired very young to the peaceful Yamataian homeworld, where he met his mother, a daughter to a semi-famous Noh performance couple. The two had Ken and were soon married. At first they tried to find regular work, but it was rough times for the couple as they tried to make their way in the world at first, like anyone really. During these years Ken was a normal kid growing up in the Yamataian countryside. His grandparents cultivated a healthy love for music in the child, and his father a love for planes. When Ken was little he would stay up until he got a bedtime story from his father about a fictional pilot Ken's father made up who would always fly in to save the day. Ken was a sweet kid, sometimes too sweet though— many a time his mother would get notes home about Ken kissing girls. But he'd always make it up the next day with a sorry note on his teacher's desk and his signature smile that seemed to always get him out of trouble.

Their luck was to change, as well as Ken's whole world, literally. Just as he was coming into his adolescence and on the cusp of his first teen years, his mother and father packed up and the three of them made their exodus to a new world of hope and opportunity. In YE 23, the planet Tatiana had begun Terra-forming and needed new colonists to set up and farm the lands. Ken's father had grown-up on his own father's farm, and with a generous offer of a large piece of land for them to set-up on, the whole Levine family was to start their new legacy. Around this time Ken's brother was born; Jake.

At first Ken was against farm life, though his father was well used to it, Ken had grown up in the relaxing atmosphere of the Empire's home-world. This caused the two to fight a lot at first. This didn't last long however, and soon Ken was adjusted and found charm in the hardworking life of tending to the farm. His teen years were a long winding road of self-discovery. Just as long was the trail of broken hearts he left wherever he seemed to go. He was a hopeless romantic, winning over girls with his boyish smile and guitar. He was in a band for a while, but Jimmy quit and Jody got married, it really never got as far as he hoped. But what became his most favourite pastime was flying the crop dusters over their fields; he would fly that thing as much as his father would let him.

In YE 28 the new NH-22C Yamataian bodies were created and offered to the public. In an effort to unify the family Ken's father had suggested they all undergo the process. So that year was the year that the 18 year-old Ken did his first body switch. At this point Ken was starting to feel that young wanderlust, desiring for something new somewhere out there in the world. His father who knew the same feeling didn't fight with Ken when he revealed his feelings; instead his father gave his son a large sum of their family savings and helped him pack his things. By the next year YE 29, Ken was off on a Fifth Expeditionary Fleet colony ship heading for the Jiyuu System. He wanted something new, to start somewhere far off in a whole new world of adventure. But that year was a bit of a struggle, it was hard to find work on a new colony. But his skills in flying quickly came in handy. Ken became a farmhand for one of the families setting up on the planet, flying their dusters and shuttle into town or close-by systems whenever there was a new shipment. Partying his free time away whenever he wasn't working, living life up and enjoying the fine life of his youth with new romances and various adventures.

He did that for a long time in his young adult years, flying became his biggest asset. But Ken wished he was flying somewhere with more meaning, like the stories his dad used to tell him. In his second year on Jiyuu System was a whole new strange string of events, at one point the fleet that flew them there to set up the colony was rebelling against the Empire, and before you know it— the United Outer Colonies were born. Now Ken didn't really have anything against the change, it was another new horizon, and he liked that. He was one of the guys out in the street on the day of their independence revelling in drinks and the songs of a new born nation, they called their-selves Jiyuuians. He, like everyone else— was lost in their brand new naive thought to the dangers just outside their borders. No one was expecting what came next; it was too fast— too soon.

Half way through YE 31 everything was bound to be undone. The pirates which started to pick on the UOC was nothing compared to the NMX, they came in clouds of infinite ships and struck harder and faster than any other force Ken had ever heard about. There was so much terror and uncertainty, nothing felt secure anymore. Like a lot of UOC citizens at the time he volunteered for the military. In a few months he was rushed through combat flight school and was off on the front lines flying aid shuttles. He was assigned to a ship in the reactionary fleets called the UCS Templar, at first he was strictly a medical craft pilot. But everything changed on his second deployment in the depth of the invasion. Ken was shot down and crash landed on the outskirts of a UOC base where civilians were desperately lost in the chaos around them, Ken found himself fighting alongside the base defenders despite injuries to protect the civilians. But so many were lost that day to the NMX, it was really a sad day. In the last few moments of that small colony Ken had secured a shuttle and made away with as many people as he could, the small vessel was so stuffed they could fit no one else. But one mother with her child begged and pleaded for them to take her child, Ken couldn't turn her down, he took the boy and put him into his lap and flew off to get them to safety.

The incident haunted Ken for a long time, even though he was rewarded for his valiant efforts with a rank promotion and a position on the UCS Templar's "Guardians Wing." He couldn't shake the ghost of that woman. Her son was taken into proper care and adopted into a new family, but not without first thanking Ken for saving his life, and gave to Ken his most prized possession; a small male UOC Peacekeeper action figure. Ken flew missions for the "Guardians Wing," but as YE 32 came to an end he found himself farther and farther away from being able to get back at the NMX for taking that woman and the many lives they had stolen. His unit was put on a patrol of a very secure place and that only made Ken feel like he wasn't doing enough. He put in a request to transfer but was denied. The UOC began only defending, there was no strikes back to the beasts that took their families. Ken then did what he had done many times before; he packed his things, resigned and moved again. This time though... he was coming home.

In the YE 33 New Year, Ken arrived back in Yamataian space. It was a bitter sweet reunion with his family who he had found out left the farm when their home planet was also invaded by the NMX, instead now living on Yamatai, lucky enough to move into his grandparents place left to them in their will. But he didn't stay long; he had a strong fire built up inside himself. He needed to get back at the NMX; he needed to feel some sort of closure in all this chaos of war. He wanted to get a chance at the monsters from the front lines. So off he was, signing up to the Star Army of Yamatai as a pilot, looking for that chance— to get vengeance, to be that hero to swoop in and save the day.
