First post was the Genesis, Assisted in a mission to retrieve an Ice Comet for terraform. 🌌

At some time later the Genesis was recalled back to dry-dock, for "Unknown" reasons, The crew split up and sent to different postings. Tani's orders sent her to a station near Kohana. Once she arrived she reported in she was informed that she received a new posting on a ship landed on Gashmere. Again she reported to find out she had a posting on yet another ship in yet another system. She sent in a request for a clarification of orders, but they returned the same. This was repeated for six months before she just stopped responding and started jumping freighters.

Hopping from one sleazy bar to another she found herself in Sargasso after hearing rumors of a great party. She joined up with the Phoenix Team for a bit, until differences between her and another crew member caused her to jump ship. After running a bit with the Phoenix crew, she got orders to report to a real ship. The Sakishima.
