Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Having just been “born” Maya is excited at this new existence that has brought her to this galaxy trying to learn as much as possible. Maya is kind, curious, and optimistic about her future. Views Yamataians as parental figures and other nekos as her sisters and views the Star Army of Yamatai as one big family that has accepted her. Maya hopes that as she learns and experiences more her true personality will finally emerge. So far she has developed quite a temper and a preference for overkill, and has become very demanding of her subordinates. She is also prone to behaving erratically, such as an incident where she shoots and kills a suspected terrorist instead of capturing him as ordered during training. Such behavior may be related to her strong reliance on instinct and intuition when on the job. She also has a laid back attitude on life in general and prefers to live in the moment but sometimes this mindset can lead her into trouble from acts of clumsiness to things just not going the way they should.

These characteristics tends makes Maya a likable if somewhat strange and weird character. Maya is very proud of herself and absolutely sure of her abilities to take on anything anyone can throw at her and takes it personally when anyone questions her competence which can sometimes lead to violence. She also has a habit of speaking her mind about others and making lewd, smart-ass, or just plain funny comments about anything or anyone. Lately Maya has also been refusing to conform to certain Yamataian cultural and social norms when it comes to dress and behavior but does not reject and embraces Yamataian values.

History

Pre-RP

Maya was created from the latest batch (Batch 83) of NH-29 series Nekos where for the last two months she and her sisters were programmed and trained to be soldiers at Educational Facility 1 on Yamatai (Planet). Curious as ever, one night Maya was able to sneak away from the neko training barracks to explore the base she was in. As she was exploring she accidentally stumbled into a break room reserved for Yamataian IT military personnel who were in the middle of there annual LAN party. A now scared neko wondering the halls of a classified military base surprised the IT personnel but instead of reporting this to there superiors they decided to secretly take the scared neko in on there off hours. So for the next few weeks the IT's would satisfy Maya's urge for knowledge and stories of the outside, she also developed an addiction for playing video games during the LAN parties. When Maya's training was complete she said her goodbyes to her new friends as they saw her off where she will be going to a military star base to complete her indoctrination and hopes to have her first assignment on a starship. Instead however she was sent to Fort Ready on Nataria for further training.

Service Record

Fort Ready, Nataria YE30

Assignment: Star Army Accelerated Training Program

Mission: After being created by Ketsurui Zaibatsu, Maya was selected to undergo the Star Army Accelerated Training Program at Fort Ready on Nataria. She unenthusiastically first arrived during the year YE30 and was to join Class 3 of the SAATP however, during the bus trip to the actual base itself, the bus she was riding on had somehow swerved off the road and crashed into a clearing. Miraculously, everyone aboard the bus managed to survive with only a few cuts and bruises including Maya. The instructors left the recruits to there own devices while they left to bring back help. Night came quickly and while waiting for help, Maya and fellow recruits Yumiko Madoka and Kazuma Aomori along with a few others were chatting about there current situation around a fire when all of a sudden, a Mishhu appeared and killed several recruits, forcing the unarmed and helpless recruits to flee into the night and try to reach Ft Ready on foot with the Mishhu behind them. Kazuma tried to hold off the Mishhu but was quickly killed, buying Maya the time to at least save Yumiko and another recruit by the name of Kuriko. With Yumiko and Kuriko in tow and another recruit named Satomi Inora following close by, Maya was able to lead the small group of survivors to the safety of Ft. Ready's confines but was surprised to see the other “dead” recruits waiting for them there including Kazuma. A debriefing revealed that the bus crash was staged and the Mishhu attack was actually a massive simulation set up with volumetric projectors placed strategically in the forest, as a means of testing initial skills and resolve. Maya didn't appreciate the fact that the moment she first arrived, they almost had her killed on two separate occasions and the experience left her bitter towards her instructors throughout the rest of the entire training period. Soon during the closing hours of that day, Maya met a self-conscious recruit named Paxton Drayson in the showers who was quite shy around people. On the next day following a morning of exercise drills, Maya had to run around half-naked due to not having a spare set of clothes and her previous outfit completely tattered during the fake Mishhu attack. Later during the breakfast period at the mess hall, it was here where she first met fellow recruit Hotaru Yamamoto and would quickly become good friends. Soon after being issued uniforms and other standard issue gear, all the recruits were soon being trained in the arts of hand to hand combat.

Hotaru volunteered to be Maya's sparring partner and during there first match together, Maya was in a blind frenzy trying to beat Hotaru by any means necessary and Hotaru took advantage of the situation by giving Maya a surprise attack when she was caught off guard and gave Hotaru the upper hand in the match effectively winning and forcing Maya to spend a little time in a hemosynthetic tank for healing. After she recovered, all the recruits were then instructed on how to operate the recently adopted Type 30 Surface Terrain Vehicle and to drive them to power armor bay the for the next phase of there training. Hotaru took the lead in commandeering one of the STVs in an unofficial race between the recruits with Maya shortly joining her. In the end, both Maya and Hotaru were able to win the race, leaving Kazuma and few other recruits high and dry into a nearby river. At the PA bay, all the recruits were then trained in the use of the Daisy Combat Power Armor and to fight a mock battle against each other. Maya was selected to lead one the teams designated Nova squad with Hotaru and two other recruits while facing off against Satomi who was leading Kaze squad along with Kazuma and two other recruits. The battle went as expected with Nova trying to flank Kaze's positron from two different angles for a surprise attack but were caught off guard and a fire fight between the two squads ensued. Hotaru had to been giving an emergency evacuation early in the fight after being wounded but Maya was able to sneak up on Kazuma and take him out from behind but a surprise attack by Satomi caught Maya by surprise and critically injuring Maya to the ground. In a last ditch effort, the injured Maya grabbed Satomi by the leg and ignited her Daisie's jumpjets, sending them both crashing into anything in there path and finally forcing Maya to black out but seriously injuring Satomi in the process. However in the end. The injured Satomi managed to defeat the rest of Nova Squad, effectively winning the battle. After spending some time in the infirmary to recover from her injuries, Maya and the rest of the recruits returned to their barracks and were giving the rest of the day and tomorrow off for some badly needed R&R. Following the day after the rest of there R&R leave, Maya and the rest of the recruits were to pack there bags to await transfer to the YSS Takemitsu, a Type 29 refitted Irim-class Gunship, assigned to Fort Ready for the purpose of training new recruits in starship operations.

YSS Takemitsu (YS-870501) YE30

Assignment: Star Army Accelerated Training Program

Mission: After arriving aboard the Takemitsu, Maya was placed under the supervision of Taii Koyame Erika along with Hotaru, Kazuma, and Satomi for there starship operations training. However, just as the Takemitsu was about to get underway, a surprise attack suspected to be caused by recently split United Outer Colonies Peacekeeper forces destroyed the shipyards and housing facilities in orbit around Nataria caused by two sabotaged Kyoto-class Carriers that self-destructed in orbit causing a massive subspace shockwave that destroyed everything in its path. The Takemitsu was able to outrun the subspace shockwave and execute an emergency jump to Yamatai but the shockwave was able to catch up and envelop the ship the moment she made the jump to light speed, causing critical damage on all decks and systems including disabling her engines and leaving her stranded somewhere between Yamatai and Nataria. As the crew were recovering from the attack, a distress call was issued on all emergency channels and Maya and the rest of the recruits were pressed into repair teams with the rest of the crew and begun to initiate emergency repairs throughout the Takemitsu. Soon however, the YSS Senbu, an Anri-Class Deep-Space Repair Vessel, answered the Takemitsu's distress call and arrived to lend aid. The entire Takemitsu's crew was then transfered to the Senbu while the Senbu began repairs to the the ship when suddenly a cloaked Vampire-class patrol craft pirate ship hiding inside a nearby debris field launched a surprise attack on both ships ny deploying small wings of Nepleslian AIR-class Power Armors. The Senbu went immediately to red alert and deployed its Mindy and some Daisy wings to repel the attackers including the Senbu's newly created “Pride” wing. Maya was one of the few Takemitsu trainees that was ordered to join the battle and she was more then happy to comply. Donning her first Mindy armor, Maya join the battle and engaged a one particular black and white AIR armed with two aether beam rifles and headed straight for it at full speed with guns ablazing. So far the AIR just dodged her attacks and destroyed most of her drones so Maya then fled to the nearby debris field and tried to get the AIR to follow her so she could launch an ambush. However, just as she was hiding, some unknown opponent managed to blast her in the back and completely destroying her Mindy's teleport unit and most of the armor but still had weapons and propulsion. In a fit of rage, the proud Maya saw the B&W AIR suddenly making a run for it and soon she gave chase despite her armor's current condition.

The AIR lead Maya on a chase threw the debris field and into its source, another ruined Irim-class gunship derelict just like the Takemitsu and they both headed on in. While inside chasing her prey, Maya received orders from a Nito Heisho Kail Tarrim to return to base so that she would take over the pursuit. Hearing this, the proud Maya blatantly refused the order and continued the chase over Kail's objections, it was a decision that would nearly cost her her life. As Maya was gaining on the AIR to the other side of the ruin ship, the vampire pirate ship appeared in front of her and received a transmission from the Senbu that they were detecting massive Aether spikes going into overload threw out the ruin ship and was about to explode. Realizing this, Maya made a U-turn and issued a area wide communication for all units to fall back as far away as possible from the exploding ship. Soon Maya was trying to outrun an Aether fireball behind her but was not fast enough and was soon enveloped in the explosion. In the aftermath of the battle, the pirates managed to get away with whatever they were doing and Takemitsu and the Senbu suffered no damage. During the search and rescue operation, Santo-Hei Shifuda Kuriko detected faint life signs and discovered them as belonging to Maya and Kail. They were both sent to the Senbu med bay for regeneration with Maya losing her right arm and Kail losing just about everything else except her head. After they recovered, Maya soon learned that it was Kail who bore the brunt of the explosion while trying to protect Maya from it and her recklessness, Kail soon developed an antipathy for Maya that the proud

Maya soon returned in kind but kept it to herself. During a debriefing Maya was awarded the Tomoyo Kikyô Award but no one was very pleased with her actions especially the Senbu CO, Shosa Shizuka Endo. After the pleasantries were over, Maya returned to the repaired Takemitsu and both ships departed. The next day, a red alert was sounded that awoke Maya from her sleep, the MEGAMI on board informed her that the self-destruct had bean initiated and all personnel were to evacuate. Maya. relying on her instinct as usual, figured it was just another damn test and ran for the bridge to put an end to it. When she got there, she found Kazuma there armed and accessing classified information. Getting the drop on him, Maya incapacitated Kazuma and at gunpoint, he shut down the self-destruct. Soon she was joined by others pointing their weapons at him and her, not knowing what's going on when another clone of Kazuma walked in. Just as Maya was about to pull the trigger on both Kazumas, the real Kazuma jumped Maya then shot the clone who turn out to be a sprite. The sprite explain that this was a test and was to be the final one and that everyone passed. Before Maya and Kazuma departed, Maya got the better of Kazuma when no one was looking and told him that the next time they meet, it would not be so friendly. Soon during a makeshift graduation ceremony in one of the PA bays, Maya was awarded the Training Award and given a promotion to Ittô Hei and afterwords left the Takemitsu forever to one of the Hotaru-class Star Fortresses for a few days of R&R, shopping, and body modification until her next assignment. A few days later, Maya received orders in her mailbox to report to the YSS Senbu to bolster its crew.

YSS Senbu (NR-X1-10) YE30

Assignment: TBD

Mission: After 36 hours aboard a resupply shuttle on route to the Senbu, Maya arrived and wasn't surprised she didn't received any kind of welcome. Maya the proceeded to see Shosa Shizuka Endo who didn't seem pleasantly surprise to see her on her ship. After the formalities were done Maya went over to one of the PA bays and found her fellow student Kuriko Shifuda also of class 3 and glad to know at least someone Maya knew would be with her. Kuriko seemed to glad to see Maya and gave her a hug of death that Maya soon gave in turn.
