Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Arkase was once a talkative individual – he would tell jokes, quote movies, and talk about the past. But it is the past that has changed him – the original fighting on Pisces Station and at South Gate at first shocked, and then finally wiped away what Arkase once was. Arkase is now quieter, and tells few – if any – jokes. He is cold, and serious through the majority of his time during the day, except with the few friends he still retains. Arkase's ambition is more fierce than ever, and the focus of his will is intense – sometimes to the point of obsession.

History

Family (or Creators)

Mother:Ambrea Oshiro Father:Kenai Oshiro

Pre-RP

Born in Kennewes, he went through school with high grades. At sixteen, while 'walking' with his younger brother - a way for them to argue without their parents interfering - his brother fell in a street and was killed by a passing car. He died nearly instantly from the blow to the head. He was immediately cast under suspicion by the police forces investigating the accident, but because there were few witnesses (and none of them had seen what happened before the younger brother fell into the street) the police forces never took him into custody. He then proceeded through school, taking a fascination to military war history, and the weapons used in it fueled his desire to join the Star Army when he came of age.

RP

Arkase joined Taisho Shimizu's Staff Protection Detail almost immediately after graduating from Basic Training. He quickly attempted to befriend those around him, pursuing his goal at the time to prove himself. After a brief training session inside a Nebula, the Fourth Expeditionary Fleet staff boarded the Nadare and left for Pisces Station. Festivities and negotiations were stopped when Misshu sympathizers attacked all over the station. Arkase's first taste of action saw him killing fellow crewmates and other traitors.

Before Arkase could come to grips with what he had saw and done on Pisces, the lone Hei found himself in yet another battle - South Gate. Put in command of the Security Teams aboard the Nadare, Arkase helped to defend the Nadare until traitors struck directly at the Fleet Command Bridge. Arkase defended his commanders and fellows fiercely - resorting to hand-to-hand combat with a Kylie Power Armor.

After the Battle of South Gate finished, Arkase stayed with the Protection Detail for a brief time before requesting training to receive a commission at the Kyoto War College. He ended up not finishing his education, and was quietly conscripted by the commander of Task Force Phantom. But due to disagreements with his new CO, he was transferred out. He bounced from ship-to-ship for a few months before being picked up permanently by the YSS Aeon.

Taking command of the away team for his first official ground mission, he descended down onto AX-01 where a Tansaku-Class vessel had crashed and was sending a distress signal. There, he and his team met enemy forces under the command of a malicious AI named Intellicus. After much fighting, and the loss of Shina Kim (their pilot) to a suicide bomb on the Aeon, Arkase and his team emerged victorious. But there wouldn't be any rest for them – immediately they were flown to Siren in the UOC to rescue civilians caught in the SMX occupation...
