At home she found it difficult to gain any time to herself if she didn't manage her time and learn to do her job as quickly and efficently as posible so as to allow for as much leisure time as posible.

Likes: Fighting, shooting any type of firearm, red meat and fixing mechanical devices Dislikes: Hurting friends, idiots, being in charge of anything, stress and poultry of all types. Goals: Gain enough money through the military to retire and live comfortably on her own farm.

History

Pre-RP

Born the middle of three children and the only girl in the family on Tatiana. She grew up with her brothers, one her twin the other her elder by three years, doing what they did and playing how they played. This didn't always end well. On numerous occasions she found herself on the recieving end of injurys because of her smaller and weaker frame. Growing up on a farm there were many ways to get into trouble, the three siblings managed to find nearly every one. By the time she reached puberty she had discovered that she, while not as strong, was faster and more agile than her brothers. This was the only difference in her mind as of yet between them, but it became a major advantage in keeping from being injured. As she grew up it became apparent that her elder brother was going to be the one to inherit the farm so when she came of age she decided to enlist and make her own way in the world.
