Physical Description

Shizuka has a slender feminine frame with tanned skin. She has youthful facial features; a cute small nose and a pair of sharp big slanted amber eyes. She has unruly long yellow blond hair with loose curls that is usually stuffed under a officer's hat or just left as is after a shower, meaning that depending on how roughly she dried it, the messier it could be. Shizuka's general appearance with her smaller neko ears and almost primal like posture gives her the slight appearance of a lion. Also the dots that mark the SPINE interface can be seen running down her back.

Psychological Characteristics

Unless she is in a professional setting, Shizuka is a very relaxed and loud person on most occasions, of course save for the few moments of which she is angered, that's when she shows the characteristics of a lion that she is so characterized for having, those of course usually only happen in the extreme occasions where her crew or ship is put in jeopardy. Because of her natural ability to take command and growing up made to be a mechanic, she has a lot of respect for the lower tier of a command chain and more forgiveness towards newer recruits then anything. Though she is not to be underestimated as a leader, Shizuka will discipline her troops if they step over the line.

Quotes

"A lowly Hei?" Shizuka seemed rather stunned by this comment. "Well firstly, I'd like one thing to be known. Rin-san, aboard my ship everyone plays a part. It's a well maintained machine, one piece cannot function without the other, and I believe that the commanders are just as important as the personnel they are ordering. This is not slavery, this is a military. Those with rank earned it and thus have the experience to make sure the lower ranks grow and live to have that same experience themselves," Shizuka said, rather inspiringly but without losing her cool demeanor.

History

Shizuka was, a stock organism created for the purpose of a militaristic lifestyle. From the day she was created, she excelled in her training as a technical sentry. She was first assigned to a ship where she was under the command of a Neko she took admiration to, doing general maintenance, but was quickly ranked up under her Neko idol. Then, she was given the opportunity to follow her idol to a new ship. She gladly said she would come along, but sadly during a Misshuvurthyar invasion that neko was killed with no chance of ST. Shizuka was her XO at the time, so she had to take command in her stead, this is when she shined the brightest. Shizuka was responsible for pushing back the invasion, and brilliantly inspiring the remaining troops on board to carry out her orders. When she returned to command, she was given a new rank and offered to take command of her own ship, she couldn't refuse an offer like that.
