Personality

Wulf is a highly motivated and focused member of the Yamatai Ranger force. Hoping to one day be a commissioned officer, he thought the best way would be to be part of the Rangers and get some valuable experience in the field. In the field you find him to be mono toned and straight to the point, making sure to keep focused while off the field with those he is close with to be very joyous and outgoing.

Wulf Soban was born Ye 17 on Yamatai \(Planet\). Born to Wulf and Karen Soban he would be born into a family with a long military background. Unfortunately due to his parents serving in the Yamatai Military, both his parents would be killed during a ongoing peacekeeping mission in service to the Empire.

With the loss of his family he would be sent to state run military orphanages during most of his life. Growing up in the Military orphanage was a mixed bless for Wulf as not only would he gain a sense of purpose but would also receive a full military education. While here though he would not have many friends growing up some say it might be cause of him being born as a full blood human but both his instructors and care takers had both given him out of the classroom love and care. To him the military was his family, his instructors his parents and this has shaped his ideals. When he became of age he chosen to enlist as part of the Yamatai Star Army. His first part of his training would be basic infantry course. During his training he would receive high marks in both leadership as well as marksmanship. It was recommended at the time he should return for officers training but instead he chose to learn more in the field.

One particular note that has been made during his training is his dislike of the Daisy M6 Infantry Suit. During a long term deployment field operation there was a noted defect with Wulf's Suit of armor. While crossing a river the suit shut down and seized up forcing the trooper under water. Due to a leak also in the suit Wulf was at a risk of drowning in his own protective gear and if it wasn't due to a nearby instructor he would of perished. Due to this unfortunate accident Wulf has been noted to stay away from any Daisy M6 models in the field. While being deployed on planet side away missions Wulf is noted to either use a slight modified Mindy set or more typically a Star Army Field Uniform Type 31 uniform. While some officers note that this might hamper his combat performance it seems he will still use the Daisy M6 if ordered directly.

-----Infantry Days-----

After graduating from basic Wulf was assigned to a local base on Yamatai. Assigned mostly for guard duty for ongoing supply conveys as well as guarding the base this would tax the young infantry-man. It was here he had a few uncharacteristically behavioral and discipline issues as well as a few citations for fighting amongst other enlisted personal. During his last incident he was quoted as saying " I was just passing the time". The base commander looking both at Wulfs record as well as notes from his childhood hoped to save the young infantry-man career. As a final ditch and also to give the young man another chance he decided to put him into Ranger School. This would be the saving grace that Wulf needed and a true restart to his career.

Taking a liking to both the training and being able to hone his skills further Wulf enjoyed the challenge. Placing first in his class during the sniper course he was able to beat one of his instructors in a shoot competition held annual for every course attendee. The only issues he had was during close combat training with other trainees. During it he had some difficulties overcoming other personal in straight cqb in traditional combat styles. After a while his instructors found him preferring other methods and no traditional fighting styles that some would call a brawl fighting style. It was here with other unorthodox training gave him some edge in some of his engagements.

After the end of training he would be assigned to the YSS Kaiyō II.

—————First days on the ship—————

Finally given an assignment that he was enjoying he found ship life to be very different. He found the close quarters and generally more personable compared to life planet side. The Crew of the Kaiyo being very open and accepting he quickly found him self gaining friends and respect of his fellow shipmates. As one of two humans onboard the ship though he did find he had to test him self abit with some crew members. This is not due to racism or anything like that but due to by nature him being rare in the empire. Being put through several on-board military drills and training would put Wulf in a very unfortunate position. During one training exercise he would be was pairing up for some competitive but friendly hand to hand combat training. While engaged in mock combat during a basic combat maneuver he slipped up and sprained his ankle. Instead of reporting it immediately he passed it off as something minor and kept training. Due to his stubborn ideal of trying to keep pushing him self he would cause further injury causing it not to heal. During a mock ship boarding exercise he was caught by the First officer limping and legging behind the rest of the unit. After a brief but slightly intense debriefing the Xo forced the young trooper to the medical bay. Because of this the Xo has ordered the Hei to light duty and assisting the ships communication officer with menial tasks.
