Physical Description

Height: 151cm/4.9ft Mass: 55kg/121lb

Build and Skin Color: Yoshida is a bit petite in appearance compared to some neko of her size but not by much, she is quite lean and compact, she has no bust to speak of.

Facial Features and Eye Color: Yoshida has a sharp, angular face with a small nose and almond-shaped eyes with dark-gold pupils. She has a ready smile that almost seems to light her face up with mischief. Her ears are the standard neko “cat-ears” with a small covering of fur the same shade as her hair. She has a pair of light blue upside down triangular genetic tattoos on her cheeks.

Hair Color and Style: Yoshida has pitch black, shiny hair. She keeps it rather short Distinguishing Features: She has a cat tail, swishing it about when in high spirits. Or excited in general. She often walks around on the balls of her feet, or the tips of her toes, in attempts to appear taller.

Personality

This shorty of a neko is fairly friendly, a bit touchy even. She will usually have a toothy, almost feral grin. She is still figuring herself out in any case, being quite young, however she does know she doesn't appreciate having her height, lack of a bust, and things of that nature being made fun of. As such she doesn't particularly like those that make fun of her appearance, and generally doesn't condone it happening to others. She enjoys soft music, and all sorts of games. She wishes to one day, become the leader of her very own squad, and move on from there to serve yamatai the best she can.

History

Yoshida Kokoro was born late in YE 38.

During socialization training, she met a number of Elysians, and a Nepleslian. She trained with them in basic and as a group, when they were done, she really did try her best to ensure they'd all get the same posting to stick together. She had some experience being teased for her general lack of height and bust size during basic and socialization training, some even going as far as to compare her physique to that of a child. She never appreciated people like that, but would occasionally hypocritically ask 'how's the weather up there?'

RP History

Yoshida was placed upon the Kaiyo, whereupon only days later they encountered a pirate ambush. Although easily defeated, it was a valuable first time combat experience for her. The excursion was a boarding, where they did a jump through the point defenses to close the last hundred kilometers to avoid some of the point defense fire. The attack eventually resulted in the detonation of the missiles within the first pirate vessel. They left the pirate ship moments before the explosion and set charges on the second vessel they boarded. Throughout the engagements they had encountered pirates in Docile power armor.

Not long after they encountered a L'kor ship, which they proceeded to engage. The enemy power armor proved to be more than a hassle, though when it was clear they would come out on top they retreated to their ship, discovered it was immobile, and detonated it. They also used this chance to pick up an NMX mercenary.
