Information

The United Manufacturing Cooperative primarily functions as a sort of 'middle man' between major cooperate, government, and military entities. Through the United Manufacturing Cooperative, affiliated organizations can collaborate in regard to design, production, distribution, and marketing. Through the collaborative process, the UMC delivers a wide range of products and services at minimal cost and high availability.

Cooperative Design

Through the cooperative process, new technologies and products can be developed by the UMC as its own unique development.

Cooperative Production

Each individual contributing organization which is part of the UMC delivers its own contribution to the productive process. Larger entities such as the MFY and Lorath Matriarchy contribute such tools as
