About

The Yekloka Tasbate are synthetically created crystals. They are designed that when an electrical charge is applied to them they emit audible sounds. The frequency of the current and the intensity produce tone and volume. Crystals are created with a specific tonal range.

History

The Yekloka Tasbate were developed originally as a means of producing pleasing sounds in public areas on clan ships. This was in addition to other natural sounds to provide variety. However, they soon became popular for use by individuals in their personal areas and a new form of music was created for the crews of ships.
