Appearance

The HAS Reva Maya is oblong and rounded in shape, made almost entirely of blue-green dyed Strodirn, giving it a shimmering-like effect in sunlight. Two rods expand over the top deck, carrying two folding panels on each rod (for a total of four) allowing it to form a canopy, deck-shielding, or a complete seal depending on the positions of all the hyperglass paneling. While it lacks any wings, the various engines along the hull facing outward, the prow, and on the back allow it full feasible control within atmospheric conditions. The ship's main deck is separated into thirds, with the foremost one partially concealed by a Strodirn shield with hyperglass panels, full of businesses and restaurants. The middle section is home to 2-4 floored housing, the center of the deck holding a large communal pool and the town plaza to mark the residential housing. The farthest back section, covered by a similar Strodirn dome as the front section, is home to the command bridge, deck-based warehouse storage and turbolifts to the various internal decks.

On Board the HAS Reva Maya

There are many facets to the HAS Reva Maya. On its top floor are the pool facilities, shops and restaurants, and a sprawling park and plaza to relax in. Underneath that is where the housing for all residents of the HAS Reva Maya is, which varies from bunks for crew, cabins, one bedroom apartments to suites. Below that is the hangar which houses light craft and So-M1-1B Erla VANDR Civilian-type. Beneath that are the power systems, then the hydroponic suite and med bay.
