

The Chrome Catgirl

The Chrome Catgirl is a well-reputed bar and grill in downtown Kyoto, notable for a huge wine selection and for its steak and sushi.

History

The Chrome Catgirl was established around YE 26 when Kyoto was still in the early stages of being built, and quickly became a popular spot for military personnel and construction workers. As years went on, other bars opened up and took some of the rougher customers with lower prices and the Chrome Catgirl gradually became more upscale and classy and focused more on military officers and government officials as its primary clientele and became the sort of place you could take your date to.

In YE 35, it was visited by Luca Pavone, Ramirez, Ira, and Maeda Shizuka ¹⁾.

In YE 43, during the Victory Day Celebration, The Chrome Catgirl was visited by Deio Asuka, William, Kara "Gravity" Sifsdottir, Rei, and Ketsurui Aiko, who were crew members of the YSS Kaiyō II ²⁾.

On 2月 YE 43 (Love Day), The Chrome Catgirl was very busy³⁾. Eileifr O Cuana and Odette Scarlett were there among others.

Description

Inside the bar it is dimly lit and the walls are covered in ornate inlaid wood patterns, paintings of famous battles, and old military gear in display cases. Each table features small chrome statues of famous Nekoalkyrja, such as Ketsurui Yui. It is a good place to unwind either in good company at the large bar or secluded in one of the many looks and crannies in the leather booth seats along the walls...and a great place to hear or tell war stories.

Staff

The bartender, Kasandra, is a cute Elysian Plebeian with a round face, light brown bob cut hair, sky blue eyes, and tiny carnation pink wings. She is dressed in a very short modified kimono that has an ornate dragon pattern.
