History

Following the Battle of Elysia in YE 31, where Star Army of Yamatai forces fought the NMX in Elysian Space, the Elysian Celestial Empire rejoined the Yamatai Star Empire. After the Second Mishhuvurthyar War ended in YE 33, the Star Army sought to fortify Elysian space and its fleets there by creating a new logistics hub. It began work on the Elysian Naval Arsenal in YE 34, which was completed by the end of the year.

In YE 41, Chujo Iemochi Feyani was assigned as the base commander.

After spending five years in mothballs at the Naval Arsenal, the ECS Panopteles was recommissioned and launched from the facility in the final month of YE 45.

Facilities

Ground facilities are built in a traditional style reminiscent of great cathedrals and columned temples, made with free-standing giant stone bricks that will stand the test of time, and decorated with stained glass windows and elaborate carvings. Statues of great Elysian warriors stand on columns overlooking fountains and reflecting pools, watching over the great parade fields and plazas. Although built by the Star Army, it couldn't be more clear that it was built with Elysian design input and with great appreciation for Elysians.

Underground, the Naval Arsenal is equipped with armored bunkers designed to resist attack by starship weapons, connected by a vast network of utility tunnels and underground storage areas. It is quite a fortress.
