

Star Army Combat Engineer

Star Army of Yamatai Combat Engineers are soldiers that combine infantry combat training with demolitions use, engineering, and obstacle clearance. These soldiers are trained to operate alongside specialized engineering vehicles, using explosives and fire weapons along with engineer tools to help provide safe passage to allied forces. Combat Engineers wear the M6-2A "Daisy II" Planetary Power Armor

Combat Engineers are assigned and deployed on a temporary, as-needed basis. They are deployed with their own personal equipment, so they can get in and out quickly. CEs are typically deployed for six- to 12-month periods. During their deployments, CEs are subject to a wide variety of missions, including combat engineer operations, humanitarian operations, peacekeeping missions, and construction projects. Combat engineers are sometimes deployed for longer-term assignments.

Skills

Combat Engineers are trained to function within an engineer environment. Upon entry to training, they are given specialized training that covers, but is not limited to, physical fitness, basic military skills, power armor, weapons and communications training, vehicle maintenance, mine, ordnance, demolitions, and related engineering skills.

Combat Engineers are not given specialized training to operate any particular vehicle. That is the task of the vehicle's crew. If an Engineer needs to move on foot, he/she must be given adequate support, or carry his/her own personal equipment.
