Breaker's Point (Urghaflu)

Uninhabited, the Mishhuvurthyar perhaps use this as a vacation spot. Anyone from Yamatai (Planet) or Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia certainly would – the surface temperature is a comfortable 15 degrees Celsius in the northern latitudes and does not heat up past 35 degrees in the middle latitudes. Two archipelagos skirt the equator; others might exist not far below the surface of the water.

- Planet: Breaker's Point

- Surface gravity: 1.15 G
- Length of Day: 12 hours
- Length of Year: 250 days

History

The YSS Sakura was destroyed in this system during the First Mishhuvurthyar War.

During the Second Battle of Urghflau, Hanako successfully led a team that rescued the former Empress Ketsurui Yuumi. Giving up her own Mindy armor to keep Yuumi safe, Hanako ordered her teammates to teleport first. Hanako herself, sadly, did not make it out.

The system was occupied by the NMX during the Second Mishhuvurthyar War and was only liberated in YE 35, when SMDIoN forces pushed out the token NMX defenders. Because of its habitability, colonization plans are being considered. Those plans, however, are dependent on the complete conquest of the area and the renaming of the system and planet to something more pronounceable in the Nepleslian tongue. In the same year, the system and its primary planet were renamed to Breaker's Point after a referendum held in the Imperium.

For the time being, a Bulwark Starbase and four Rook platforms have been stationed there. The naval picket in the system consists of two destroyers.
